วิทยาลัยการบริหารและการจัดการ
Administration and Management College

AMC offers a variety of academic and seminar courses in the undergraduate, the post-graduate, and the doctorate programs. The courses have been developed to foster the skills of business and management in several areas; therefore, AMC graduates are widely accepted by both government agencies and private organizations.

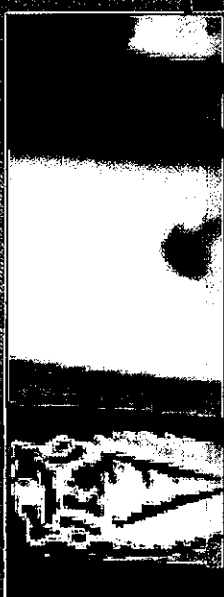

The college provides research grants on a regular basis to foster its faculty and students' pursuits of their research excellence. AMC also collaborates with national and international agencies to establish close relationships with leading organizations, industry professionals and the business community. Collaborations with leading organizations and business leaders are strengthened through the exchange programs and activities to support education, arts, and culture. These rigorous and innovative activities help to enhance the identity of KMITL students. "Honest, Knowledgeable, and Industrious."

Undergraduate Program

Bachelor of Business Administration (B.B.A.)

Three majors are offered in our four-year undergraduate program in Business Administration:

- + Agricultural Business Administration
- + Technology Administration
- + Industrial Business Administration

The Bachelor of Business Administration program provides excellent academic instruction and develops students to be capable individuals in the areas of administration, management, business operations, and technological applications in government and private organizations. The college also nurtures the next generation talented self-employed entrepreneurs. With a breadth of general management principles and solid academic background, AMC graduates can successfully continue their studies at post-graduate and doctorate levels.

Throughout the B.B.A. program, particularly in "Cooperative Education," undergraduate students will have the opportunities to be trained in leading organizations in both domestic regions and overseas, such as CP Group, J-Mart, Panasonic, etc. Furthermore, during the summer, a variety of supportive and stimulating training opportunities are provided both locally and abroad in countries such as the Philippines, Japan, and China. In addition, AMC offers the distinctive "Progressive Bachelor's Degree Program (4+1)." In this program students complete their undergraduate studies then continue studying through to the post-graduate level, in efforts of obtaining a Master's degree within 5 years.

Master of Business Administration (M.B.A.)

Three majors are offered in our M.B.A. program:

- + Business Administration
- + Agribusiness Management
- + Industrial Business Administration

The Master of Business Administration program is suitable for people whom have completed a Bachelor's degree in any academic field and wish to enhance their knowledge of administration and management of agriculture and food industries, as well as general administration.

Students may choose to undertake either a thesis or non-thesis two-year program. During the program, students are encouraged to participate in study tours both within Thailand and overseas. These study tours will give the students insight into political, educational and cultural diversity in both local and international business operations.

Throughout the program, AMC provides support and guidance in a stimulating and collaborative environment to assist students in developing the sophisticated skills and knowledge needed to be successful in the growing business sector. Students will build relevant highly valued professional skills and acquire academically grounded knowledge, which will directly enhance their employability. AMC graduates provide substantial and tangible benefits to their company and organization.

Doctorate Program

Doctorate Program

Doctor of Philosophy, Ph.D.
(Industrial Business Administration)

The Doctor of Philosophy (Industrial Business Administration) program is suitable for the academics and business executives who would like to reinforce their experience and enhance their knowledge by integrating technologies, industrial management, cutting-edge research, and the latest business ideas into their practices. Doctoral students are encouraged to emphasize, synthesize, develop, and implement the technical and intellectual skills required to pursue doctoral research across a broad range of areas in Industrial Business Administration. Students complete their formal coursework within two years, then dedicate an additional two or more years to finishing their dissertation. From the early stage of their research, candidates are encouraged to participate in recognized international workshops and colloquia, in addition to publishing their research in prestigious international journals. Doctoral candidates also have the liberty to conduct research abroad in their field of interest.
